

Evangelical Church presents Awana awards

Evangelical Covenant Church (ECC) in Alexandria presented awards to nearly 150 Awana club members at a recent awards banquet at the church.

The Sparks Club, for children in kindergarten through 2nd grade, gave Sparky Awards to six graduating 2nd graders. The awards involved spiritual growth, and memorizing 114 Bible verses and the books of the Bible. Recipients included Jake Bear, Samuel Borowicz, Johanna Greninger, Eva Krohnfeldt, Jennie Eng and Midori VonBargen.

The ECC Awana Club also awarded the Timothy Award to 6th grader

Spencer Coffman for spiritual growth activities and memorizing more than 800 Bible verses. The Meritorious Award went to 8th grader Dan Wiseman for two years of additional memory work and activities.

Awana is an international, interdenominational, Bible-centered youth organization providing weekday clubs and programs for children ages 3 through elementary and beyond. The goal of Awana is to reach children and youth with the news of Jesus Christ and to reach parents and other family members with the gospel, and training adults to minister to youth.

Midori VonBargen, Johanna Greniger, Jennie Eng, Samuel Borowicz, Jake Bear and Eva Krohnfeldt (left to right), all 2nd graders, received the Sparky Award at a recent Awana ceremony at Evangelical Covenant Church in Alexandria.

Spencer Coffman (left) received the Timothy Award and Dan Wiseman (right) received the Meritorious Award at a recent Awana awards ceremony at Evangelical Covenant Church in Alexandria.